IN MEMORIAM

Henry Melvin Hart, 1875-1936

In tributes paid to the memory of Mr. Hart, we have heard much of his vision, of his high educational ideals, and of his unswerving loyalty to what he believed to be right. All have marveled at the dauntless spirit, which, in a determination to finish his work, enabled him to defy pain and disease—and almost death.

Those who knew him best are fully aware of the justice of the highest tributes paid him.

Yet other qualities come to my mind—qualities which the world does not always properly evaluate. Our friend never forgot the little courtesies of life, never failed to give the word of hearty congratulation or sincere sympathy. Not mere formalities were these, but they came from a heart keenly sensitive to the joys and sorrows of those about him. In a word, Mr. Hart had that true culture which manifests itself not only in love for the true and beautiful, but also in consideration for others.

NORA FRYE

"Bold, Cautious, True, and My Loving Friend"

Henry M. Hart was born on January 3, 1875, at Sycamore Place in Orange county, New York, where his father spent eighty years of his life. The place is near West Point. He grew up on a farm; and as he often said, he disliked farm work very much.

In 1896, he was graduated from Cornell University, where he majored in history and economics. Beginning his teaching career by serving as assistant principal in the high school at Dubuque, Iowa, he later spent five years as principal of the Centennial High School, Pueblo, Colorado, followed by two years of similar work at Butte, Montana, from whence he came to Spokane.

Mr. Hart was married to Mary Lanette Tyson, on June 18, 1902, in Pueblo, Colorado. Their first child, Helen Tyson Hart, was graduated from Lewis and Clark in January, 1920; and later from Vassar. Their second, Henry Jr., completed the course at Lewis and Clark in January, 1921, later graduated from Harvard, and is now Professor of Law at this institution.

Mr. Hart came to Spokane in the fall of 1907 as principal of the old South Central High School, which was destroyed by fire on the morning of June 20, 1910. Two years later, in 1912, when the present Lewis and Clark building was completed, Mr. Hart became its principal. The name "Lewis and Clark" was the suggestion of Principal Hart.

Hart Field, a 52-acre tract on the south hill, was dedicated in his name as the Lewis and Clark playfield in 1926. In June, 1930, Mr. Hart was honored with the degree of honorary Master of Arts at the forty-eighth annual commencement of Whitman College, Walla Walla. In the same year he was stricken with an ailment which confined him to his bed for many months. Determined not to let sickness stand in the way of work and his plans for the future, he was soon back at his office at Lewis and Clark. In 1932, in recognition of twenty-five years of service as principal of Lewis and Clark, and of his leadership in American secondary education for many years, Gonzaga University gave him an honorary degree of Doctor of Education.

One of the best known educators in the Northwest, Mr. Hart was a member of the National Committee of Twenty-one for Cooperative Study of Secondary School Standards and was active in its work. He was president of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools and for many years was a member of the State Board of Education.

Under Mr. Hart's principalship, Lewis and Clark was more than a school—it motivated much of the cultural life of the city in addition to boasting a fine academic rating among colleges of the east and west. His numerous projects have done much to enrich the school life; the notable art gallery that fills the halls of the school, the great pipe organ, and the concert series that through the years have brought many famous musicians to Spokane.

Mr. Hart was in his thirtieth year as principal of the school and had graduated 9,350 students when death came to him Monday morning, November 16, 1936 at the Deaconess hospital. He saw his first graduating class of 47 grow to 320 in June, 1936. The Lewis and Clark High School of which Mr. Hart was the only principal, stands a monument to his long career in education.

JOAN LINDSLEY

TRIBUTES

Henry M. Hart was a schoolmaster in the best sense of that word. To him his principalship was more than a profession; it was his very life. He emphasized cultural and scholastic attainments. He took great pride in the fine standing of Lewis and Clark graduates in colleges and universities, and in their successes in later years.

Best and most lasting of his influences are to be found in the hearts and lives of the many thousands of Lewis and Clark students. In them lives something of his good will, his faith, his high sense of duty, and his courage.

ORVILLE C. PRATT, Superintendent, Spokane City Schools

The fact that Henry M. Hart chose educational work as his life's business, proved that his eyes were looking forward. He knew there was no great monetary future for such a pursuit, but he was a man of high ideals and wanted to inculcate them in the youth and citizens of Spokane. He was an efficient educator and his educational results were excellent. In my 29 years of acquaintance with Mr. Hart and close contact with him in the Lewis and Clark Playground Association, I had an increasing admiration for his deep regard for public trust; his advanced ideas, inherent honesty, and happy faculty of doing the right thing at the right time. Spokane shall greatly miss his physical presence, but Henry Hart has left an enduring monument in his work here.

R. L. RUTTER, Chairman of the Board
Spokane and Eastern Trust Company

We, the students of The Lewis and Clark High School, would pay sincere tribute to Henry M. Hart, our late principal. We are glad that we have had the high privilege of knowing him as a friend and leader. We are proud to be students in a school which occupies as enviable a position in the educational world as does Lewis and Clark, a position made possible largely through the tireless energy and the high standards of scholarship of this man of vision. We are grateful to him who has given us the fundamental training necessary to achievement in later years, who has awakened in us an appreciation of the cultural and the beautiful, and who has instilled in us a faith in the worthwhile things of life. May we prove worthy of the confidence he placed in us as students of Lewis and Clark and carry through to a successful conclusion what he had so ably begun.

JOEL FERRIS, June, 1937

It has been my good pleasure through the years to know Henry M. Hart personally, and to know definitely of his work as an educational leader. His influence in his own Lewis and Clark High School was marked, but far beyond this his good work extended across the state. His contribution as a member of the State Board of Education still stands as a monument to progressive public school service. He was known as a man of rare good judgment and a clear educational thinker.

N. D. SHOWALTER, State Superintendent of Education

The educational and social leaders of the Pacific Northwest are deeply grieved to learn of the death of Henry M. Hart who for nearly three decades served as Principal of the Lewis and Clark High School.

During those years he gave most generously of his energy and time in support of all worthy social movements. As a consequence, the Pacific Northwest holds him in grateful memory.

While we grieve over the death of one of our splendid leaders, we are proud to have known him and worked with him. Because of his faith in us we are able today to meet life's problems with greater sanity and courage.

E. O. HOLLAND, President
The State College of Washington

I had the good fortune to know Henry M. Hart for a quarter of a century and I always considered him an outstanding leader in secondary education. Lewis and Clark High School has a personality that is characteristic of him. It stands for culture and high scholarship. I can remember so well the many chats I had with Mr. Hart concerning the excellent work that was being done in his school and how modest he was in taking any credit for the achievement to himself. It is altogether fitting that the faculty and student body of Lewis and Clark should give this tribute to so distinguished a leader and so fine a man.

THOMAS R. COLE, Professor of Education and High School Visitor
University of Washington

Henry Hart was a great educational leader. His strength of character and fine example of the cultured citizen, friend and leader of boys and girls, fellow teachers and patrons has been a benediction in the lives of thousands. And his influence is not ended; he still lives and will continue to live in the better citizenship which he so skillfully built. Spokane, the State of Washington, and the Northwest are all better for his splendid life. Society cannot recompense in coin the services of a great teacher such as Henry Hart.

In any occupation or profession that he might have chosen, Henry Hart would have been a distinguished man. In law, medicine, statesmanship, business or finance, he would have been a leader. He chose to invest in boys and girls. Some day society will realize that great teachers are of fundamental importance to the stability of democratic institutions.

FREDERICK E. BOLTON, Dean Emeritus in Education
University of Washington

During the five-year administration of Henry Hart as President of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, secondary school membership increased 65% and that of the higher schools 45%.

This exceptional record was due largely to the persistent efforts of a quiet man who believed in an ideal, whose unselfish devotion inspired his co-workers to larger effort, to whom the pleasure of service was his sole reward. The Association will miss his fine leadership. His colleagues on the executive staff have lost a devoted friend.

PHIL. SOULEN, State High School Inspector of Idaho and Treasurer of The Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools

Mr. Hart was a man of high ideals, a definite purpose in life, and in spite of his illness was always working for the interest of the education of youth. He was always cheerful, considerate, calm, and had a good balance in his thinking and planning. We shall regret very much his absence from our councils but can truthfully say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the kingdom of heaven."

M. P. MOE, Executive Secretary, Montana Education Association

He has gone but his memory will live long in the hearts of the thousands of men and women, who owe so much to his kindly moulding influence. A real educator, he brought to his teaching paternal interest in his pupils which looked to their moral as well as their intellectual development. Spokane has lost a most distinguished citizen and education a truly worthy schoolman. There is no greater loss than the loss of a real and true friend. Such was Henry M. Hart.

JOHN J. KEEP, S. J.
Former President, Gonzaga University

The death of Henry M. Hart leaves a void in the public activities of our city that nobody can fill. He was more than just a high school principal and educator, because he considered his work a part of the city's growth and development.

He took a larger interest in public affairs than any school man I have known in our state. This caused him always to broaden his activities beyond the school and that attitude undoubtedly made for better citizenship on the part of the teachers in his faculty and the thousands of students who have come under his influence.

His work will live after him for many years in Spokane and Eastern Washington.

CLARENCE C. DILL, Former United States Senator
The State of Washington

I knew Henry M. Hart for nearly thirty years, first as the Principal of the old South Central High School when I was a student. I remember his kindly encouragement, his sympathetic interest and at the same time his firm insistence upon the maintenance of the standards of that school. Through the years since that time I have watched him build and develop Lewis and Clark High School. He has made it an institution of which those interested in education in the State may be proud.

Through these same years I have known Henry Hart as a friend. The same kindly interest he had for me as a student has been maintained for a quarter of a century. We have lost a friend but we retain a memory which will always help us to be just a little bit better citizens.

Seniors

Message

Assumedly, you now stand at the first real parting of life's ways. The threshold of that mysterious region we know as opportunity now fronts you. Some will continue their preparation in college or university, while others will seek immediate absorption in trades and business, to whichever desires or aptitudes may feel a call or sense a longing. You now not only have the good name of Lewis and Clark as your first alma mater to sustain, but it is also yours to prove that the public investment in you will, in time, pay its proper dividends to society. Wherever inclinations may lead, there should always abide with you an assurance that the best efforts of the teachers have been expended upon you. For the future, their highest hopes go with you for your utmost success. We, who continue after you are gone, can hope no better for you than that opportunity may greet you with the utmost consideration and fullness of reward.

Activities

Boys Federation

Speaking for the boys of the Lewis and Clark High School, I wish to congratulate heartily the Class of January '37 upon its successful publication of this excellent Tiger; may it stand as a fitting symbol to their singular ability.

Speaking merely as a student, I wish to compliment the school as a whole upon the generous support they have given school activities this fall as evidenced by the success of the Prom, the increased attendance at all athletic contests, and the other varied activities of the school. The Federation feels certain this wholesome school spirit will continue throughout the year.

WILL LORENZ
President of the Boys' Federation

Girls Federation

On behalf of the girls of the student body, I wish to compliment the members of the Senior class for publishing this unsurpassed Tiger. I also extend congratulations to Mr. Teakle for the splendid work he has done as director and loyal helper to the class.

And now, "Lest You Forget," I feel the need of injecting a more serious note into my message. As you read this page, I want you to think soberly of the man who has made many superior advantages possible for the students of the Lewis and Clark. Everyone knows of whom I speak. Mr. Hart was always a strong executive and a gentleman; a gentleman you and I admired very much. May we all in future life uphold the standards he set for us.

INTERIOR OF THE FIRST PUBLIC SCHOOL IN THE CITY AND COUNTY OF SPOKANE

This early building stood at the intersection of Post Street with Railroad and is the direct ancestor of the present Lewis and Clark High School. This shows the interior as it appeared about sixty years ago.

Literary

Class Will

We, the January '37 class,
Leaving you here as onward we pass,
Being of sound mind (as far as we know)
Offer these treasures to you as we go.
We leave our teachers, so loyal when needed
Hoping you'll treat them better than we did.
Our high school spirit we hereby do give,
That you may make it continue to live.

Some members of our class request
To make a personal bequest.

Ye Editor Kimball's journalistic skill
To Carol Clute he gladly does will.
Gertrude Bailey, her tuba and toots
To Donnie Swick for one of his flutes.
To "Beans" Denham, Max Honsowetz wills
Her dancing and pianoforte skills.
"Miffie" Roberts leaves her figure so trim
To Shirley Moore who diets with vim.
Bee Haegele, one of the dresses she's knit,
To Barbara King and hopes it will fit.
Athalie Smith will be the heir
To Donna Jean Bradshaw's curly blonde hair.
Betty Holt leaves her quiet way
To Jean Miller, who is very gay.
Vincent Sadler makes this bequest
His twenty suits all cleaned and pressed.
Her love for music Ruth Rankin doth will
To the devoted and ever constant Phil.
Melvin Hanson gives his radio
To any genius who can make it go.
In admiration for the trophies he's won
Cleveland Karr leaves John Gay his very best gun.
Dimples that adorn Betty Anne Reeves' face
Will be left to Burgan, her features to grace.
Eldenburg donates her love to chatter,
To Pat Cooper—a little more won't matter.
Rose Marie Rich, her secretarial skill
To Bernson so a job she may fill.
Eleanor Barrow leaves her love to sing
To Carol Polwarth for the joy it will bring.
Irene Richter, her deep blue eyes
To be Louise Galloway's special prize.
Kuttler, King, Harper, and Lowe
Collectively their brains bestow.
Beaupre forsakes his football plays
So we'll beat all one of these days.
Ruth Melrose wills her job to those
Who wear size thirty-two in clothes.
Davis, Toreson, and Taylor—on their way to college
Would leave—but need—their acquired knowledge.
M. L. Calkins her traveling does will
To an Artemiad sister, Jeannie Hill.
Kofmehl bequeaths the bike he rides
And his good grades in school besides.

Lipscomb leaves just half her gum
As she can never be without some.
Her place with the sub-debs Klopfer displaces
To teach some other girls social graces.
"Daize" Chadwick leaves her golden hair
To Vanderburgh—if she wants to be fair.
Sterling Day his steady capacity
To Louie Bradway to give him tenacity.
Mary Jane Daniel her fickle mind
To other girls of the changeable kind.
Armstrong her sweet disposition leaves
To those who suffer from pet peeves.
Eggert leaves his turtle-neck sweater behind
(We're mighty sure Janet Tucker won't mind).
Hageman and Robinson their dramatic arts
To help Thespians carry out their parts.
Charles Black bestows his chivalrous ways
Upon those who realize that courtesy pays.
The Oliver sisters their dancing feet
To make Finley's ability more complete.
Lois Muscott her shorthand speed
To Fogelquist—if she will heed.
Charles (Chi-Wee) Weiss his haircut's fame
To Thompson 'cause he has the same.
Iwata his Latin ability does will
To any young Frosh who needs this skill.
Almarion Robbe gives his miniature size
To bring Ralph Hanson out of the skies.
Elaine Fletcher bequeaths her giggling fame
To Jean Fischer to keep up the name.
Joan Lindsley, her gift to write,
To some new-dawning literary light.
Ruth Long, her nickname of "Toots"
To anyone else it particularly suits.
Stanton leaves her diving grace
To another who can take her place.
"Pinky" Kipp must be the heir,
To K. K. Dalquist's flaming hair.
To some other girl who isn't a dub
Ruth Whitley hands over the racquet club.
Carlson offers his cartooning art
To Gindraux, just to give him a start.
Dick Burch leaves his V-man physique
To make Fred Robinson more of a sheik.
"Hi" Bennigson, at least ten pair of shoes
To Lucille Rowse for her own private use.
Bets Sheehan gives her way with the men
To Virginia Siegmund (in the family again!).
Dick Riegel (the man about town) bestows
Upon Sammy Corisis, his nonchalant pose.
Glendinning leaves her sparkling wit
To the bashful Signa, Darlene Schmidt.
Yes, this is our will—sealed, witnessed, and signed.
These are the things we leave behind.
If you don't like what has come to pass
We are sorry—Good-bye—the January '37 class.

—VIRGINIA MOHRMANN

Class Prophecy

"Good evening everyone. This is Paul Phillips again presenting to you today's outstanding personalities from here and abroad on the "Character Caravan."

From New York comes the very distressing rumor that Bob Davis, that tempermental poet, who recently completed his masterpiece, "Ode to a Delicate Wildflower," is going to winter on the (Riviera?) because of recent disagreements with his publishers Goos (Martha) and Hill (Betty Ann). If he should spend his winter in France, allow me to recommend the Brosinka Cafe in Paris. Since the proprietor, Rex Anderson, engaged that "naughty but nice" pair Lorraine Geisler, June Bonney, and Vera Faubion, as hash slingers, business has jumped 50%. Although the food is only mediocre, the company is very nice.

I wonder how many of my listeners know that Bob Burns is now a highly-successful gag writer on the Norman's "Nifty Nicknacks Hour" every Sunday Night. I understand, however, that "Fuzzy's" life is not the bed of roses it seems, because I have it from a reliable source that Frank Johnson, an eminent lawyer, and Ken Lloyd, a famous artist, have threatened tar and feathers if any more bum jokes are given out.

An amusing story has just come from Hollywood. Director George Scott was giving a party in honor of the screen's newest sensations, Florence Hertzberg, Lois Florine, Frances Furlong, and Betty Lou Alton. Among his guests were Melvin Olinger, called by some "America's gift to womankind" and Betty Foster, sometimes called "Dean of Women at Stanford" due to the fact that she owns a date bureau.

While passing the aquarium last Friday I was pulled irresistibly into this magnificent edifice. I shall always be sorry that I entered because I found Pollyanna Daniel daintily crumbling fish food and tossing it to the fish.

While I was in the aquarium, I ran across a second "Caspar Milquetoast" whom I discovered to be Ken Carpenter. Upon my inquiry he said that his wife had deserted him, leaving five children to be supported. While still in the aquarium, I also found myself to be the proud possessor of ten packages of Sen Sen and seven packages of Black Jack. I always have been an easy mark for dimples, and when Nel Spaulding and Virginia Mohrmann approached me with a hard luck story and a tray of assorted tidbits—well, you know the rest.

I have before me a newsflash from Pago Pago. The Coast Guard boat is being called to protect the inhabitants of this island. Bob Headstrom, Jack Henniger, and James Mackey, who have gone native in a big way, are wearing goat skins and growing beards. It was a noble experiment in the beginning, but after finding a bottle of Loganberry Cordial left by picnickers, the boys thought they were headhunters and had to be suppressed.

It is being rumored that wedding bells will soon ring out for Adrian McDuffie and Dorothy Wardner. We hope all goes well; but if they just aren't meant for each other, the law firm of R. Turner, B. Pitcher, and A. Wick is very fast in breaking the ties that bind.

I understand that we, the people, are soon to be provided with an excellent biography of Bob Crampton's life entitled "How I became what I am."

If any of my listeners happens to be traveling in the country in the vicinity of Walla Walla, don't fail to see the model farm owned by Ruth and Emerson Brown. The beauty of the farm is further enhanced by its milkmaids, Margaret Halverson, Ruby Williams, and Miriam Wise.

If you have not seen the acrobatic team of Maxine Dahl, Leonard Doyle, and Helen Johnson, you will be missing one of the most interesting sights New York has to offer. The way these three toss around the body beautiful is simply marvelous.

Did you ever stop to think that life is becoming pretty dangerous? Just the other day, a huge limousine, driven by Wallace Olson with Herman Wallace as footman, almost ran down a saxplayer. When it stopped, Patricia Pattullo, swathed in furs, emerged and demanded to know why he didn't get out of the way.

Don't you think that more credit and praise should be given to our modern doctor? I am speaking specifically of that trio Harry Bussard, Paul Kennedy, and David Hartt. Boy, if some of us had a line which could be compared with their bedside manner, you never could tell where we would end. Perhaps some of their success with male patients could be traceable to their nurses, who are Willifred Batman, Helen Hughes, Catherine Welty, and Alice Leland. What man wouldn't be willing to chance death to have such as these to attend him!

There is an ugly rumor circulating that the titanic battle between Screwball Sharp and Butch Weidner in Madison Square Garden will be postponed because Screwball's arches are falling. In this eventuality, in all probability, Cactusface Conrad will fight the champion for this title.

I have a report from Lewis and Clark High School that the new crop of cadets is one of the finest which has been seen there in years. Rex Anderson and Dick Monroe are certain that careers as Spanish Teachers would be nice. Robert Harrington and Margaret Redding have decided to devote their lives to the furtherance of Latin in the secondary schools of Spokane. Marie Dunstone and Iona Sweet think that the English department needs them and have decided to teach English.

The Hotel Royal boasts of one of the best floorshows in the whole of New York. Since Edna Martin joined the company in the role of a fan dancer, things have certainly brightened up. The dance team of Elmer Miller and Zella Berson also provides excellent entertainment. A trio composed of Lillian Parker, Ester Blumhagen, and Myrtle Norman does much to cheer a lonely evening. The chorus, which is one of the feature attractions, is partially made up of Francis Regan, Mae Rubertt, and Ruby May.

How many of you know that Claude Sicklesteel is now a Yogi? On one of the busiest streets of Yakima you may purchase from him a little booklet entitled "How to become a Yogi in Ten Easy Lessons." Paul Hauschild and Kelsy Campbell are his assistants and have saved the Yogi's life many times when unsatisfied customers have returned to demand retribution.

I have a special message for the ladies. If you do not think you are getting all the masculine attention you deserve, drop in at the beauty shop owned by Eileen Stirn and Evelyn Strang. They will fix you. (Paid Advertisement.)

We hear from Japan that Tom Iwata has been formally denounced by the Emperor for introducing swing music into that formerly peaceful country.

There was a large crowd at the airport last night to see that pair of intrepid fliers, Hubert Holl and Eddie Lippert, take off for China. However, this morning we received news that they had made a forced landing at Hawaii and were so royally entertained by Francis Borhauer, Charlotte Mack, Wendell Templeton, American Consuls, that they decided to stay in that Island of Paradise.

Margaret Brown, Betty Ferrel, and Mary Louise Wallner are now models for the dress firm of G. Howlett and F. Boman. Looks to me as if the gentlemen know a good thing when they see it.

"Around and around she goes, and where she stops nobody knows." What familiar words these are to our radio audience. It seems that a person can't turn on his radio anymore without being tortured by a one-man-band or a very poor imitation of Caruso. Speaking of amateur hours; last Monday I stopped in at the Rear Admiral Rooney program. I noticed that Emmert was especially partial to a trio composed of Violet Greene, Ona Whitney, and Agnes Kvillhaug. The girls sang "I'm an Old Cowhand" and were really very good. The next amateur on the program was Lilamae Thomas, a very proficient whistler, who received a large share of applause.

Our scene now shifts to a huge auditorium in the Radio City Music Hall. We find a community sing in progress through the courtesy of Sammons Chili Bean Co. Some people say that Charles Sammons has done a great service to America by the program.

In the hall I see for master of ceremonies Harold Strom. In the large audience I find a few well-known faces, that of Lucille White, who recently wrote "Come with the Zephyr"; a noted dress designer, Elizabeth Wolfe, who was also lifting her voice to the strains of "Wahoo"; and Joe Johnson, a human interest columnist on the Daily Crier, who was taking down notes on the broadcast.

Well, that's thirty for the edition, Ladies and Gentlemen. I'll see you all soon at this same time and don't forget "The Lewis and Clark High School."

The Lure of the Big Top

It seems that everyone has a certain degree of hero worship. About the time I was seven years old, I regarded with admiration and highest esteem all those people who so gallantly dedicated themselves to work in the arena. My one desire was to be a circus performer.

I was possessed of this ambition after I had read a book in which was recorded the harum-scarum adventures of a girl who was born and raised under the Big Top. Her parents before her had been circus troupers. She was absolutely my ideal. There was no other future for me than that of a circus trouser. I knew, of course, that I could never be quite like the heroine of the story because my parents were not exactly what one would call performers, but nevertheless I went so far as to imagine my father, tall, dignified man that he was, sedately walking a tight-rope some fifty or sixty feet in the air and at the same time balancing my mother, dressed in bright red tights, on his head.

As for myself, I never did quite decide just what type of artist I'd be. I pictured myself as being nearly everything from an animal trainer to the daintiest aerialist of the show. In truth, about the only thing I didn't imagine being was the fattest woman in the world. I could see myself putting fierce tigers through their paces or dancing on the back of a mammoth elephant while in reality I would run at the sight of a gentle cow, and a barking dog frightened me silly.

I went through my acrobatic routines on the comfortable softness of my bed with only my dolls as an audience. Their arms hung limply at their sides and their unseeing eyes stared straight ahead, but to me they became a cheering crowd, and I bowed and flashed a sparkling smile at my spectators as they brought down the house with thundering applause.

Hours at a time I'd spend presenting my monkey act, using my younger brother and sisters for monkeys as long as they would permit.

My nose was pugged and my hair didn't have a trace of a wave in it; but when I'd gaze into a mirror, my nose didn't look pugged at all and my straight brown hair really did seem long and wavy. In my mind's eye I could see myself dangling from a trapeze while my long, black, curly tresses flew in flattering disarrangement about my face. I fell in love with the daring young man on the trapeze; and the various clowns, freaks, and tight-rope walkers pined themselves away and grew pale because I refused to return their affections.

My parents warned me that people who traveled with a circus were not always looked upon by the world as the nicest sort of folks, but I only smiled and pitied them because they did not share my enthusiasm. I proceeded to clutter up the house with pictures of silly men and women in tights, twisting their bodies into all sorts of contortions as they swung through space.

But fortunately this state of insanity was not to last forever. I outgrew it along with my summer clothes; and although the prospect of a circus coming to town still thrills me, I no longer intend to be a circus trouser; and when I finish growing up and fall in love, it's certainly not going to be with the "daring young man on the flying trapeze."

A Disparagement of Cats

Two things prompted me to write this derogation of cats. The first is the superabundance of essays praising cats; the second, an abhorrence of the feline family I have cherished since my infancy.

In every anthology of essays that I have read, at least one composition has been devoted to the eulogy of Felis domestica. I might make a similar statement about collections of poems. For example, here in this high school practically every freshman learns, as part of his memory work, a poem entitled "The Gardner's Cat." My repugnance against cats dates back to a nightmare I had when I was about three years old. In this particularly terrifying experience in the realms of Morpheus, I was in a dark room which was filled with cats. Their glowing eyes leered at me; their hellish yowls rent the air. An impression which time will never erase was made on my mind.

In spite of my distaste for cats I do not believe I would dislike so violently essays praising them if every one of these dissertations was not developed in the same manner and did not stress the same feline attributes. The lack of versatility shown by writers who have the praise of cats as their subject is phenomenal. Schoolmates, in writing about their cats or cats in general, display as much originality as would renowned authors when writing on the same subject. Feline characteristics which are particularly stressed are: grace, composure, daintiness, and good manners. Many writers compare cats to princesses and queens. One essayist likened a cat in a grocer's window to a priestess in a sunlit temple.

Cats are the subject matter not only of literature but also of journalistic articles. Nearly every day the newspapers discuss the will of some eccentric person who bequeathed his or her fortune to a cat. Heriots cats who awaken families in burning houses "crash" the front page at intermittent periods. Cat shows and the blue ribbon felines who participate in them often provide copy. Also in newspapers, sections devoted to natural history derive a large part of their subject matter from the feline family. Rare and unusual members of the cat family are well represented in special magazine features such as "Keep Up With The World" in Colliers, and "Twenty Questions" in Liberty.

Even in ancient history one cannot escape cats. In it we learn that many ancient peoples revered the cat. Outstanding among those who have worshipped members of the Felidae family are the Egyptians. They fancied the cat was the material form which Ra, their main god, assumed when he appeared on the earth. They were so devoted to the cat that they mummified cats that had been royal pets and placed the mummies in the tombs of famous monarchs. These facts show that times are improving, for no matter how rabid a cat fan is today, he hardly wishes a feline grave fellow.

In fact I believe public sentiment is actually changing over to my point of view. In proof of my statement I offer expressions such as "pole cat," "feline," and "pussyfooting." These terms have been coined within the last century. Surely the persons who originated them didn't think very highly of cats. Also, when someone speaks of another person's being a cat, he isn't praising that person. However, if I did not have these unquestionable proofs that other people also abhor cats, I would still believe I was right. I base this conclusion on the old axiom which states: "The minority is always correct." Surely, if only I were afflicted with catophobia, I would be in the minority. If this were the case, I am, according to the adage which I have just quoted, correct.

Autumn -- The Golden Season

Autumn, with all her glory, beauty, profusion of color, and her cool exhilarating days, has come. Blue skies, hazy skies, cool evenings, cold mornings, and long sunny afternoons; how I love them all.

The leaves this year are more beautiful than ever. Or maybe it's just that we appreciate them after last year's leaves, which froze on the trees and did not have a chance to turn.

There is a certain tree in Manito Park that I eagerly watch each fall. It seems always to be the first to turn, its leaves changing to a brilliant red early in September. Being the first to flaunt her crimson autumn dress, it sets the fashion in colored leaves. Soon the other trees don their red and yellow colors.

Somehow, to me it seems as if, when autumn comes, children are happier. Their small faces beaming with happiness reflect the atmosphere of the sunny golden days. There is so much for them to do, too. Today they must help father rake up those leaves on the front lawn. What fun it will be to run and jump into the huge piles! And when it is dark and the bonfire is lighted, how the leaves will crackle, and how good they will smell! When the fire dies down, they will add enough fuel to make a bed of coals. Then they will cut switches from a green tree and toast their marshmallows. Toasted marshmallows! All lovely and crunchy on the outside, but creamy and mellow when the golden crust is broken.

Autumn is the perfect time for day dreams. On Sunday afternoons, when young girls and boys, and old bent-over men, are seen walking along sunlit paths, their eyes are filled with dreams of days ahead when—but who can tell? Anything might happen on a beautiful autumn day!

Dear Caroline,

You may remember that in my last letter I mentioned the fact that I was a candidate for graduation. Since that letter was written, my doubts as to the likelihood of my participating in this semi-annual event have decreased somewhat. I am now fairly certain that I shall be among those receiving the red-ribboned "sheepskin" with tremulous hands.

It is not without a feeling of sorrow that I anticipate that day which is approaching with surprising swiftness, for my regret in leaving school overwhelms even the knowledge that, at least for a few months, there will be no "burning of the midnight oil." In fact, in pausing to think, I realize that High School is really not synonymous with "study," and ten years from now I shall probably not remember that I spent almost every school day debating which subject I should "get" during my sole study period, which never allowed time for more than one. No, I prefer to think that these memories, however seemingly important, are short-lived, and that I shall always think of my four years of High School as the happiest and most carefree of my entire life.

I have gained in many ways during the last four years, and yet it seems to me that the most pronounced gain has been socially. Not only have I acquired a host of valuable friends, who have made these past few years the richer for having known them, but I believe that I have improved in the ability to make and keep friends. One of the depressing parts of graduation is the realization that I must lose many friends, never again seeing some and meeting others occasionally; but it seems that we must contend with this loss throughout life. Next to the acquisition of friendships, I believe the second social gain is that I have improved in the ability to mix and cooperate with a group. One's training along this line begins with entrance into kindergarten, and seems to reach its heights in High School, where one is forced to mingle with all sorts of classes and people and "like it" so to speak.

Intellectually my gains have been a little less apparent, if what my family says is true. Although my brain has certainly not absorbed everything I've studied such as dates or formulas, I do believe in a small way I've gained the knowledge of how to study and the desire to know things along with the knowledge of how and where to find them. I suppose I am no different from anyone else in that I am sure some subjects will never wholly desert me while others such as geometry and chemistry have vanished so completely that not a single trace, not even an angle or chemical equation remains. In fact time has kindly obliterated the pain which accompanied each thought of the subject even after I had completed the course.

On the other hand I hope that I may never forget certain pieces of literature which I've read in English and Latin.

I suppose I am not original in sometimes wishing I had studied a little harder and had made a more presentable scholastic record; and yet I suppose if I had it to do over again, I would probably improve my standing very slightly.

In closing I should like to offer a bit of well-intended advice which my father gave to me, and his father to him, on similar occasions. To you who are just beginning High School, get everything possible out of it. If you do this, at the end of the four years, which will pass all too quickly, you may count up your winnings and find yourself much richer for your term in High School.

Yours sincerely,

BETTY LOU ALTON

"The Goose and The Gander"

I am, fortunately, or unfortunately, the proud possessor of an auto. Needless to say, it is my most prized and petted possession, although it is only a model "T." Yet it has brought many a mighty problem, most philosophical, to my door. One of my pet peeves is the pedestrian.

When I am driving, all pedestrians annoy me! Regardless of sex, size, shape, or being, they are like flies in my soup. The dreamy-eyed individuals who stroll leisurely across the street, without a care, particularly bother me. Sometimes I feel like sticking them with a pin to wake them up, or else doing something far more drastic. The type who is always in a hurry also causes dark threats to formulate in my mind. They seem to be like so many ants hurrying and scurrying, hither and yon, this way and that. I remind you, dear reader, that these thoughts are mine, only when I drive.

This is where my trouble begins. Often I am forced through necessity to become a pedestrian. Then, alas, my views entirely change. I sincerely believe that half of the drivers are maniacs; and the rest, idiots. Why, it even appears that they are actually trying to crush me beneath their murderous machines. I have continually to keep a sharp lookout for some speeding madman, who, in his hurry and rush, jumps a red light and whizzes by, scaring me half to death with a loud Honk! Honk! Worse yet, is to have the young man in a new car come speeding up to the intersection, and then slamming on the brakes at the last moment, actually stop. Each time, I feel sure my end has come. When he does stop, I gulp, swallow my heart (which has changed places) and weakly drag myself to the other side to recuperate. I make vows, dark and bloody, as to what I'd like to do to that driver if I could only lay my hands on him and hope that never again am I in such a predicament, or so close to meeting my maker, "face to face."

But I know that just as soon as I get back into my car, I shall again entirely disregard the pedestrian, except as a nuisance. I often wonder if this is some new disease—or just human nature.

COACH MYER

Cross Country

The twentieth annual cross country meet with Lewis and Clark host to North Central, was run over the Mission course, October the twenty-eighth. Of the twenty meets these schools have held, Lewis and Clark has won thirteen. In the seven years George Meyer has been mentor of the squad, his teams have been victorious five times. Coach Meyer has also turned out track and field title-winning aggregations.

William Wade, coming in first and within one second of the course record set by Anderson of North Central in 1932, led the pack after the first quarter of a mile. With the aid of his team mates, Earl Nichols, Werner Meyer, Morris Gaylord, Richard Sinnitt, and Gordon Matthew placing 3, 4, 5, 6, and 8 respectively, North Central was defeated. The score was Lewis and Clark 19; North Central 36, the low scorer being the victor.

Werner Meyer, the only member of the six lettermen to be lost by graduation, was chosen honorary captain.

Football Squad

Football, 1936

With but seven returning lettermen on the Lewis and Clark football team, Coach Maskell succeeded in producing an aggressive team which improved with every game. The never-say-die spirit shown by the squad was taken up by the student body, and the wave of spirit and football enthusiasm has not been equalled in many years past. The team, led by Captain Alfred Erie won three games, tied one, and lost five; but in every game the Tigers gave a good account of themselves. No team was able to make consistent yardage through the Tiger forward wall at any time during the season.

COACH MASKELL

Fred Robinson, Tiger half, made a touchdown after a fifty-yard run, and Don Miller, intercepted a Kellogg forward pass and ran for a touchdown. Meyer converted both times.

There was a noticeable dearth of experienced players at the start of the season, but the green players developed into stalwarts. Alfred Erie, a defensive and offensive bulwark, was named honorary captain of the team. Sam Corisis, played a fine game at fullback with his kicking a credit to any college player. Don Miller, right tackle, played every minute of time as one of Coach Maskell's mainstays. Richard Wouters, quarterback, was one of the best passers in the city.

Of the twenty-four lettermen, eleven will be returning while thirteen will be lost through graduation. With the spirit that these returning lettermen have shown, next season's team should be well able to give a fine account of itself.

As a fitting reward, the team and coaching staff were honored on December fifth at a banquet sponsored by the Lewis and Clark boys and girls federations in the Roundup Room of the Dessert Hotel. It is hoped this courtesy will be followed in the years to come.

KELLOGG

The Lewis and Clark Tigers downed the Kellogg Wildcats on September nineteenth at Kellogg by an impressive score of 21-0. The Tigers scored first on a pass from Dick Wouters to Carl Perry. Dick Meyer added the extra point to make the score 7-0. Neither team scored again until after the beginning of the second half when

GONZAGA

Gonzaga's fighting Bullpups defeated the Tigers 6-0 in the second game of the season at Hart field. The only score came in the third quarter when a Gonzaga player recovered a fumbled ball on the Tiger eighteen-yard line. A run by Graham, a pass, plus a ten-yard run by Derr, advanced the ball to the ten-yard line, and Graham circling the right end crossed the goal line. The last quarter saw neither team able to get into scoring position.

JOHN R. ROGERS

Lewis and Clark's Tigers went down to a 20-0 defeat at the hands of the Rogers' Pirates at Rogers' field, October first. Rogers' first score came late in the first quarter when Don Balch, blocked Sam Corisis' kick and ran for a touchdown behind perfect interference. The kick was good, making the score for the half 13-0. The final touchdown came in the third quarter after Dick Liberty recovered Sherman's fumble on the Tiger twenty-six-yard line. The try for point was good. The Tiger line far outplayed their opponents with Rogers compelled to repeatedly use passing in defeating the aggressive Tigers.

MACK RODNEY, Guard

Junior. An aggressive player although hampered by injuries. First year letterman.

WESLEY MAGERS, Tackle

Junior. Promises to be one of the finest tackles next fall. First year letterman.

ALFRED FRIF, End

Senior. Honorary captain and all-city player. Second year letterman.

DON MILLER, Tackle

Senior. A most consistent player at all times. First year letterman.

CARL PERRY, End

Senior. Fine pass receiver and good on offense. Second year letterman.

FRANK HUNT, Guard

Senior. Aggressive on defense; a fine blocker on offense. First year letterman.

MARVIN GILBERG, End

Sophomore. Should turn in a fine record next fall. First year letterman.

NORTH CENTRAL

North Central defeated Lewis and Clark by a score of 12-6 on the Indian field, Thursday, October eighth. The game was a battle all the way, both teams fighting evenly. A break either way could have changed the outcome. Early in the third quarter Lewis and Clark, from North Central's forty-yard line, drove Robinson over the goal line on a pass from Sherman. Dick Meyer failed to convert. On the third play following the kick-off, Contos passed from his forty-yard line to Wolfe, who made thirty-five yards to the goal. Schreiner's kick failed. Early in the fourth quarter, long runs through center by Fergerson and Wolfe, advanced the ball to the twenty-yard line from whence Fergerson crossed the goal line standing up. Alfred Erie blocked the kick.

COEUR d'ALENE

Outplaying their opponents throughout, Lewis and Clark's Tigers defeated the Coeur d'Alene Vikings 12-0, in the Lake City, October sixteenth. Neither team threatened until the second quarter, when Don Miller blocked a Viking punt, which was recovered by Bob Dickson on Coeur d'Alene's twenty-five-yard line. Wouters passed to Erie who raced twenty-five yards for the goal with no conversion. Playing most of the final quarter in Coeur d'Alene's territory, Lewis and Clark made its second score by gaining the ball on the Viking twenty-yard line through an illegal pass on a Lake City player to Marvin Gilberg. The kick was blocked.

GONZAGA

Gonzaga defeated the Tigers, 26-12, in the Gonzaga stadium, October twenty-second. The Bullpup's first score came from a pass by George Derr from the eleven-yard line to quarterback Twohy. The kick was wide. Late in the same quarter from the Tiger three-yard line, Walt Graham, Bullpup half, circled the right end for the second score. The kick was good; score 13-0. On the second play of the second half, Dick Wouters passed 25 yards to Erie, who raced fifty yards for the Tigers' first score. Conversion failed. The Bullpups' third tally came when Pat Higgins cut off right tackle and ran sixteen yards for goal. Try for point was good. The Tigers' final tally came in the fourth quarter when Sam Corisis ran twenty yards to the goal after receiving a pass from Wouters. The kick failed. The final Bullpup tally came shortly after when Twohy passed to Stanek, who ran sixteen yards to the goal. The kick was blocked.

ROGERS

Outplaying Rogers for three quarters the Tigers lost to the Pirates by a 13-7 score. Two decisive breaks, a bad pass and a blocked kick, enabled the Pirates to put over the winning touchdown. The Tigers tallied late in the second quarter through recovering a fumble on their own thirty-five-yard line. A goalward drive ended when Bernie Hansen went over from the one-yard line after a long pass from Erie to Wouters. Magers made the point. Rogers' first score came in the third quarter from a recovered kick on our 35-yard line. Rogers scored again through two passes from Tortorelli to Liberty, a run by Aikens, with Liberty going over. Erie blocked the kick. Corisis' kick was blocked in the fourth quarter, but recovering, he carried it over. Conversion was good.

MOSCOW

The Tigers battled the Moscow Wildcats at Hart Field, November sixth, to a 12-12 tie. Bernie Hansen scored first following a forty-one-yard drive. The high-light was a sixty-six yard run back from a kick-off by Wouters. This enabled Wouters to score our second touchdown. Moscow's two tallies came in the fourth quarter. Tex Allen ran thirty yards for the first and passed to Paul Ryan for the second. Lewis and Clark dominated the game throughout except in the closing minutes of the final quarter.

NORTH CENTRAL

The Lewis and Clark team recorded a thrilling finis to the season, Thanksgiving Day, at the Gonzaga Stadium, when it staged a sensational defeat of North Central, 14-12. Robinson, Wouters, Perry, and Erie were the major heroes in the thrilling victory. Robinson scored both touchdowns, aided by Wouters' passes and a punt by Erie which was handily recovered by Perry. North Central scored in both second and third quarters. Their victory appeared certain. Appearances changed when the Tigers took the ball on their own twenty-yard line and scored by a series of passes. Garrison converted both kicks. The second Tiger score came when Erie blocked a North Central punt.

FRED SHERMAN, Quarterback

Junior. A very fine passer.
Injuries greatly hampered him.
First year letterman.

ROBERT LAING, Center

Senior. One of the best defensive players on the squad. First year letterman.

RICHARD MEYER, Tackle

Senior. A place kicker of exceptional ability. Three year letterman.

WILLIAM NYE, End

Sophomore. Promises to be one of the finest ends. First year letterman.

FRED ROBINSON, Halfback

Senior. Fine on line plunges.
First year letterman.

DON KJOSNESS, Guard

Senior. All-city guard. Strong defensive player. First year letterman.

RICHARD BURCH, Halfback

Senior. A capable blocker and fine on defense. Two year letterman.

KENNETH BARNES, Quarterback
 Sophomore. A promising mainstay for next season. First year
 letterman.

DON DAVISSON, Halfback
 Sophomore. A very capable blocker in the making. First year letterman.

JOEL FERRIS, Guard
 Senior. An aggressive and hard-hitting guard. Third year
 letterman.

CHARLES THEIS, Guard
 Junior. A steady player and a stone wall on defense. First year letterman.

ROBERT GARRISON, Halfback
 Junior. Fine pass receiver, and an adept goal kicker. First year
 letterman.

BERNIE HANSON, Halfback
 Senior. Fine line plunger, and an outstanding pass receiver.
 First year letterman.

ROBERT DICKSON, Center
 Junior. An aggressive defense player. Two year letterman.

SAM CORISIS, Fullback
 Senior. One of the finest kickers in the city league. Placed on all-city selections. Two year
 letterman.

FIRST ROW (left to right) Rodney Burch, Harry Bussard, Willis Bussard. SECOND ROW C. E. Miller (Coach), Jack Rock, Donald Swick. THIRD ROW—Alfred Erie, Edward Jamieson, Malcolm Stewart.

COACH MILLER

Boys Tennis

Lewis and Clark is fortunate in again having Alfred Erie, former city champion for players under seventeen, and the only left-handed player on the squad, as the key man on the tennis team. His leadership, coupled with his experience and enthusiasm for the game, will undoubtedly be reflected in the team morale during the approaching season.

Returning for his second term as tennis coach, Clarence E. Miller, who is assistant football coach and former tennis and football player at the College of Idaho, gives the prospective line-up as Alfred Erie, John Rock, Donald Swick, Bob Dickson, and Malcolm Stewart. They will doubtless be striving hard for a position on the team.

Freshmen are urged to try out for tennis as continued success is largely dependent upon the experienced material available. From these ranks teams can be selected to represent Lewis and Clark.

Lewis and Clark in the past has been greatly handicapped because of insufficient court space available for practice. With the completion of the new Comstock Park, it is hoped this situation will be less acute than in previous seasons.

Tennis is a sport that carries over into later life and provides years of enjoyment after the school period is over. For this reason alone it should attract the attention of every student who enjoys exercise and the thrill of sports requiring skill and precision.

COACH McMACKEN

Rifle

With seven returning lettermen from last year's champion rifle team, Mr. J. G. McMacken, rifle mentor, in his twenty-second year as rifle coach, boasts a record of not losing a single city championship. He predicts that this year's team, led by Captain Robert Gay, should, with hard work, be outstanding and win many records.

Letters are awarded only to those who finish in the first five places in over half the matches and who maintain a seasonal average of at least ninety-five in the matches. Those who have gained awards and should prove mainstays to the team are: Captain Robert Gay, Dick Hewett (captain two years past), Joe Hopkins, James Lyons, Walter Davis, Jack Worman, and Boyd Morrison. There are many stellar shots on the team with Gay who holds the record for four-position shooting as well as the National Rifle Association medal for the highest award of Distinguished Rifleman. Dick Hewett holds the record for ten shots from sitting position.

The squad is soon to begin telegraphic competition meets with Upper Darby, Pennsylvania; Western High, Waterloo, Iowa; Broom Field, Michigan; and Valley Stream, New York. Challenges will be sent to Tacoma, Seattle, Everett, Wenatchee, and other high school rifle teams of the state.

Shoulder to shoulder matches will be arranged with teams of North Central and Rogers. Between these matches the members of the team shoot for National Rifle Association medals. A number of these medals should be won by members of the team.

Basketball Squad

Basketball

The defending champions in the city prep basketball league, the Lewis and Clark Tigers, who journeyed to the state tournament last spring in Seattle, took the floor at the beginning of the season in December with five returning lettermen and several promising newcomers.

The returning lettermen were Bob Dickson and Ted Thompson, forwards; Shannon Patterson, all-state guard; Marvin Gilberg and Jim Tinsley, guards.

One of the biggest jobs facing Coach "Squinty" Hunter was to find a center to replace Harold Schlichting, the towering pivot man of last years' squad, who paced the city prep players in the scoring. Peter Skoglund and Gilberg were the leading prospects for the position. The loss of Roland Lavigne was severely felt as few players have his aggressiveness on defense as well as offense and his dead-eye accuracy.

Each team tangles with the other club in the loop four times before the season is finished, and will play two of the four games in the first semester and the final two during the last semester. All games will be played on Tuesdays and Thursdays and it is expected that the team will receive the school's loyal support as formerly.

We all feel that by the time this Tiger is published Lewis and Clark should be well on the way to its ninth city championship under Coach Hunter.

Under the new rulings for the state basketball tournaments to be held at Seattle, it has been definitely settled that the first tipoff shall start on March seventeenth and the final game for championship recognition on March twentieth.

Formerly the tournament was only a three-day match, but under the new system of a four-day meet, no team shall play more than one game a day. This gives the teams not dropped in the first championship game a chance to re-establish themselves.

The Pre-season games on schedule were:

Saturday, December 12, Harrington
Friday, December 18, Sandpoint
Wednesday, December 23, Kellogg
Monday, December 28, McLoughlin High in Milton-Freewater, Oregon
Tuesday, December 29, Walla Walla
Wednesday, December 30, Dayton
Thursday, December 31, Endicott
Friday, January 1, Colfax
Saturday, January 2, Moscow
Friday, January 8, Lewiston
Saturday, January 9, Clarkston

COACH BAIRD

Golf

Every year the Lewis and Clark golf team has a post-season turnout. The purpose of these fall contests is to discover new material and perfect the game of the lettermen who will be returning in the spring. This fall two squad matches were held, scoring on handicap, and two practice matches were also held with North Central. Four lettermen, Tom Atwater, Dick White, Frank Boutin, and John Leland are returning. With other promising golfers uncovered this fall including John Barrett, George Hislop, Eugene Buchholtz, Albert Tanner, John Storaasli, Philip Brooks, Don Murray, and Calvin Shults, Coach Philip Baird predicts a good golf team for 1937, by way of the highly-satisfactory fall practice.

Mr. Baird, who took over the coaching reins last spring, replacing H. J. Oke, has been coaching the freshman football and basketball teams the last few years with extraordinary success. Being an excellent golfer himself, playing in the low 70's, he should develop an outstanding team.

Yell Leaders

The yell king, Ted Caputo, and his yell dukes, Louis Bradway, James Sargeant, Sigmund Weinstein, and Ned Lageson, have maintained a high pitch of enthusiasm among the members of the student body throughout the current football season. Their rhythmical performances, gained through two seasons of practice together, were featured at every football encounter and yell convocation during the semester.

The new yell, "Fadada," introduced before the Rogers game, has become one of the school's most popular yells, and along with another new yell, called the "New Tiger Yell," has kept the stands well vocalized and has sent many home with hoarse voices.

The loss of Ted Caputo and Louis Bradway by graduation will be greatly felt by fans next fall, but the school should be well represented by the returning yell dukes.

Volleyball

The girls interclass volleyball tournament was a series of most exciting games. Two teams were entered by the 9 B's while one each was entered by the remaining classes or divisions playing in the tournament. Each team entered played six games with the team winning the most games becoming champion of the school.

The deciding game of the tournament for the first ranking position was between the 9 A and the senior teams. After playing a hard game the seniors won. The deciding game for the second place was that of the 9 A's and the juniors. The former team won with the 10 B representatives taking third place.

The coaching of the sport has been under the direction of Miss Jessie Baltezare while the schedule of games was run off under her direction with the assistance of the members of the Girls Athletics Club.

Girls Tennis

Tennis is the only inter-school sport the girls of Lewis and Clark have at present. As yet only one tournament has been played and this with North Central. Although the girls from Lewis and Clark played their games well the tournament was lost by the score of 12 to 9. In the spring, West Valley, Rogers, and North Central will be met in contests.

The tennis group is divided into two general squads—advanced and beginners. Miss Anne Norvell is the coach and has been for several years in charge of the girls tennis training of the school. There are at the present a number of lettermen on the team with none being lost through January graduation. This would seem to assure a most successful season for the coming spring round of meets.

When the girls win their set in playing against any one of the other schools, they receive, as a reward and a recognition, chenille letters in the form of an L. C. Jean Thorpe, 12B, is the top ranking player at the present with Dorothy Belcher, 9A, as second in rank. During the fall season there have been forty-eight girls turning out for tennis—Jean Thorpe, Jean Weller, Lenore Talley, Roberta Miller, Virginia Austell, Mary Edson, Gertrude Woolsey, Virginia Wester, Beverly Weber, Muelr Walters, Catherine von Gortler, Ruth Thomson, Peggy Jane Talbott, Patricia Sweeney, Agnes Stromen, Jane Storer, Beverly Soss, Jane Snoddy, Ina Schoemperlen, Marjorie Rarey, Gwyneth Owen, Virginia Olson, Marjorie Nelson, Dorothy Nelson, Eleanor Mitchell, Joyce McKay, Harlan Marshall, Virginia Mahoney, Jane Laberee, Betty Laberee, Lois Kirkeby, Gerry Johnson, Virginia Hitzel, Margaret Hayfield, Jean Harris, Eileen Green, Betty Gamble, Helen Ekholm, Eleanor Davis, Betty Cleary, Shirley Campbell, LaVerne Brown, Barbara Bell, Dorothy Belcher, Margaret Batters, Geraldine Aydelotte, Helen Amick, and Betty Alberts.

Badminton

As yet the girls of the Lewis and Clark High School have played no inter-school tournaments in badminton since all contests to date have been restricted to the playing of the game between teams arranged among themselves within the school.

Badminton was originated in India and is similar to tennis in the manner in which it is played. The English people were the first outside of India to play the game and were also the ones responsible for bringing it as a sport into the United States. So far there have been no national badminton tournaments in the United States although there have been some played in Canada and other countries.

Badminton has only recently been added to the girls sports at Lewis and Clark. The girls have shown much interest in the game and are deriving much pleasure from its playing. Instead of a ball, a shuttlecock or "bird" is used in playing the game. The badminton racquet is smaller than the tennis racquet and is of much lighter weight and construction.

As in the past of the game here at Lewis and Clark, Miss Anne Norvell is coaching the players. The girls playing this year are Sara Williams, Peggy Morse, Jean Brown, Barbara Arnold, Vada May Lawrence, Jean McClintock, Ellen Robertson, Zoa Warner, Mary Ann Magney, and Betty Brebner.

Elmer Miller: What do you do with the clothes you wear out?

Bob Crampton: I wear them home again.

Eddie Lippert: Did you hear about John's swallowing a kodak film?

Hubert Hull: I hope nothing serious develops.

Maxine Dahl: Isn't your coat rather loud?

Bob Davis: Not when I put on a muffler.

Betty Sheehan: Why don't you two shake hands and make up?

Jane Robinson: I can't make up when shaking hands.

Teacher: Why is this class like a Ford?

Gilbert Howlett: Because the crank is up in front.

Donna Jean Bradshaw: Johnny is the best runner in college.

Frances Stanton: How come he's so fat then?

Donna Jean: "Haste makes waist."

Fat Boy (after being hit by a car): Couldn't you have gone around me?

Paul Phillips: Sorry, but I wasn't sure whether or not I had enough gasoline.

Leonard Doyle: What are you going to do after you graduate?

Rex Anderson: I am seriously thinking of taking up land.

Leonard: About how much?

Rex: A shovelfull at a time.

Mary Frances Roberts: Dancing is in my blood, you know.

Chorus: You must have poor circulation then.

Mary Frances: Why?

Chorus: It hasn't reached your feet yet.

Bob Headstrom (after graduating): I came to bring warmth and light into the bleakness of your home.

Spinster: Oh, you dear . . .

Bob: You've made a mistake. I'm the installation man for the gas company.

A Store with Young Ideas!

● It has been a constant policy of the Palace to meet the merchandise wants of young people. Although reflected in all departments of the store this policy is most clearly evident in the smart fashions for smart young people—to be found in the Fashion Salons—2nd floor.

Singer at Con.: "And for Bonnie Annie Laurie, I'd lay me down and dee."

Melvin Hanson (rising): Is Miss Laurie in the audience?

Lloyd Carlson: I'd like to exhibit this modern painting. Could you suggest a title?

Art Dealer: Why not call it "Home."

Lloyd: But it's a landscape. Why call it "Home"?

Art Dealer: Because there's no place like it.

Kenneth Dalquist: Are you a sound sleeper?

John Conrad: Yes.

K. D.: Do you snore?

J. C.: No.

K. D.: Do you walk in your sleep?

J. C.: No.

K. D.: Fine, how about taking my place in physics?

Doctor: You cough more easily this morning.

Virginia Mohrmann: Yes, I've been practising all night.

Kenneth Kofmehl: Butcher, the sausage
you gave me was half meat and half sawdust!

Butcher: Well, we don't charge enough to make both ends meet.

James Mack: What'll we do tonight?

Charles Sammons: We'll spin a coin; if it's heads, we'll go to a dance; if it stands on end, we'll study.

Betty Armstrong: Don't call me "ducky."
It's awfully suggestive.

Gordon Eggert: Why?

Betty Ann: Because ducks always waddle.

Betty Lou Alton: My goodness, your hair smells . . . what's on it?

Dick Burch: That's some vaseline pomade.

Betty Lou: My! Isn't your father talented.

With All Your Learning

Learn the Appreciation of Quality!

*A*S YOU GO through college and out into the world of business, you will find that the quality of the work you did in your high school years will, to a very large degree, influence your success. You will find, too, that this same principle holds true throughout all of your experiences and relationships in later life. The quality of the work that you do and the quality of the things with which you surround yourself will have a profound bearing on your social and business progress.

Your business stationery will form a very important part of this picture, for it, too, will be a reflection of YOU. See to it that it breathes quality and good taste, for recognition and appreciation of these attributes are among the greatest assets any man can possess.
